

Wilmington does it up right

Senator Brown comes to town

By JON BISHOP

WILMINGTON - As per tradition, Wilmington, as a community, came together on the Common to partake in Fourth of July festivities that culminated in vivacious and vivid fireworks. Families and friends ate and drank and socialized together. Everything seemed to swell, almost to the point of bursting, with local and national pride.

Community surfaced as the overarching theme for the evening's opening ceremony.

"Wilmington is a community known for volunteerism," said Scott Garrant, Chairman of the Fourth of July Committee, during his address. He also thanked the service of the Fourth of July Committee, as well as lauding the efforts of two distinguished former members, Tom Pazzyra and Stu Ring.

He was also sure to note the major purpose of this celebration: the veterans. Presenting the Colors for the evening were crew members of the U.S.S. Constitution. The Windham Community Band provided soaring orchestral accompaniment.

Garrant invited former and current

Local Heroes honors troops

Tent vandalized before Fourth of July

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - As the country celebrated the birth of independence Monday, Local Heroes celebrates our troops every Wednesday, and hasn't missed a week since November 3, 2004.

Every week between ten and sixty volunteers gather at the Knights of Columbus in Wilmington to pack boxes for local troops serving abroad. They spend between $600 and $1,000 weekly in postage to send an average of 25 packages, though some weeks reach as high as 125 when dedicated volunteers like Galvin Murphy host major events. At the most recent cookout, the group sent out 251 boxes in one day. To date, Local Heroes has mailed 13,837 care packages.

The organization depends on donations from residents, civic groups, and corporations to pay for postage and the items that go inside. Sometimes volunteers bring the goodies, other times Local Heroes goes shopping to make sure our troops get what they need.

"In the summer, donations get a little weak," Local Heroes founder, Lou Cimaglia, told the Crier. "If no one does a drive we go shopping every week for the supplies. Every box has the standards: toiletries, powdered energy drinks, coffee, cream, sugar, baby wipes and sunscreen."

In fact, the organization just received a request from a unit of Green Berets staying in an Afghani

Bed-panned titans compete

The ultimate athletic challenge - Fourth of July Hospital Bed Race

By JON BISHOP

WILMINGTON - The smell of fried dough hung overhead and cacophonies of carnival sounds clamored as four intrepid teams - Wilmington Youth Hockey, Local Heroes, Arlene Ave All Stars, and Women of Wilmington - burst from the Fourth of July building in order to begin the annual racing of hospital beds. A sometimes treacherous endeavor, these teams came prepared for the intense level of competition that would make seasoned weary woe.

Something like that.

Wilmington's annual hospital bed race came bearing new rules to make the competition a bit more difficult. This year, riders carried bedpans. They were to dismount the bed at the opposite end of the street, fill the bedpan filled with an unpleasant yellowish liquid, and sit back on the bed. Their teammates had to swiftly speed them back to the finish line.

The bedpan had to be emptied, and it had

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

Plowing the future site of the Farmers Market

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - On Sunday, a farmers' market will open on the lawn where the Swain School once stood, at the corner of Middlesex Avenue and School Street. It is a fitting place for such.

That lawn was originally graded by Herbert C. Barrows, the same man for whom the high school auditorium is named. Barrows was a farmer and a long-time town official who was honored for not missing a town meeting in 60 years. He was chairman of the committee that built the Swain School (originally the high school) in 1914, and he excavated the cellar hole and graded the lawn, with horses providing all the power.

Prior to becoming a school site, the field was owned by Charles Osbon and was the site of plowing competition during Old Home Week.

The Internal Revenue Service is still trying to find undisclosed offshore financial accounts that haven't been taxed properly. So they are offering amnesty from criminal prosecution for those who come forward and get up to date with their tax obligations.

The deadline is August 31, 2011 for taxpayers with foreign accounts to disclose any unreported income from 2003 on and pay all taxes, interest and penalties due on the understatement. The special-offshore penalty can be as much as 25 percent of the highest amount held offshore during that period; the penalty for those with balances less than $75,000 is 12.5 percent and can go as low as 5 percent for those who inherit such accounts or for foreign residents who were unaware that they were U.S. citizens.

The penalties are slightly higher than they were during the 2009 disclosure initiative, so as not to reward those who waited to come forward. Tax problems of any kind? Talk over your options with the tax professionals at

Today, some homeowners take pride in creating a handsome mowing pattern on their lawns. In days gone by in Wilmington, farmers would take similar pride in plowing their fields straight and true. In the late 1800s, the Farmers and Mechanics Club conducted plowing competition among the local farmers. The work, of course, was all powered by horses, so the competition was largely about who could best control his work horses.

William Henry Carter, otherwise known as Bill Hen Two, was a consistent winner of the competition. Another contestant was "Braybo," Fred Brabant, a teamster who worked for Bill Hen Two. Others included Christian "Pop" Neilson, Charlie Blaisdell, Edward "Governor" Taylor, high school principal Frank Carter, known by his bright red shirt and high leather boots, and a town farm team, driven by the farm superintendent, a man by the name of Spaulding.

Spaulding desperately wanted to beat Bill Hen Two. One year, he bought an experienced team that Bill Hen Two had previously used, leaving the latter to train a team of green horses. Nonetheless, Bill Hen Two still won.

He said he won the contests the same way he plowed his fields: take it easy, do a good job, and never swear at the horses.

Bill Hen Two was known in his family simply as Henry.

The nickname came from there being another William Henry Carter in town, who was a selectman and town clerk. Bill Hen Two lived on Shawsheen Avenue at the corner of Bridge Lane. He was the town highway superintendent, for which he received $75 a year, plus labor. In the 1903 town report, that amounted to $384.

The plows used in the competition were the Oliver Chilled Plow No. 40, pulled by two-horse teams with the driver walking behind.

An earlier site used for plowing competition was a field where St. Thomas Church now stands. It was part of the Thomas Bond estate. Later, the competition was held at the corner of Middlesex Avenue and Federal Street. That large field had once been used for training militia. It is not known when the last plowing competition was held there, but the field showed the furrows from that competition until about 1950, when a new owner plowed and planted the field.

In many New England towns, the town common would be the site of such activities, but Wilmington had no common until about 1882, when Sabra Carter provided in her will for the purchase of land for a town common.

Farmers market opens this weekend

Local vegetables, meat, fish, coffee, and more!

WILMINGTON - After more than a year of monthly meetings, plans, and more meetings, the Wilmington Farmers Market will open for an inaugural nine-week season beginning Sunday, July 10, from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. The market will be held on the grassy area at the corner of School Street and Middlesex Avenue, across from the Town Common. Those who have lived in Wilmington for some time will know this area as the former site of the Swain School.

Opening day looks to be a fun and engaging event. State Representative James Miceli will be on hand for the official ribbon cutting ceremony, Wilmington Dance Company's performance team will entertain everyone at 1:30 p.m., and local musician Ron DiTullio will be on hand with his guitar and harmonica. Vendors on opening day include those who will be in attendance throughout the season: three farms, a grass-fed beef vendor, a seafood vendor, two bakeries, and a coffee roaster among others. Making a one and only appearance will be a knife sharpener, so be sure to bring that favorite chef's knife or those dull kitchen shears that you've been meaning to do something about. The Book Store Next Door will also be on hand, to promote the fact that they will be open on Sundays while the market is open, and the Women of Wilmington will be featured at the Community Table.

Some may have attended farmers markets before, since more and more of them are popping up in the area as people seek food that has been locally grown. Andover, Bedford, and Woburn - to name a few nearby towns - all have started farmers market in the past five years or less. If a farmers market is a new experience for you, here's what you can expect at the market: the farmers who grow produce or raise animals for meat or eggs sell directly to customers. You can select from an exciting array of seasonal fruit and vegetables, as well as seafood, baked goods, and other foods produced locally. You will meet the people who are actually growing or producing the food you eat. Most farmers enjoy answering questions about their produce and about farming in general.

Along with the farms and others that will be on hand each week, the market will also have other occasional vendors including those selling jams and jellies, sweet treats, hand-made soaps, candles, beaded jewelry, and more.

Additionally, the organizers of the market have worked to make it a community event that is enjoyable in its own right. For example, the market will feature local music, including Wilmington High School's a cappella group Soundscape in September, and members of the Merrimack Valley Chorus in July. There will also be performances from organizations such as Wilmington Dance Company, and The Dance Academy. Some weeks will even feature a family-focused event at 2:00 p.m., like a Zumba class on July 17 and a family yoga class - sponsored by The Yoga Loft - in August.

Furthering the community focus of the market, there will be a "Community Table" at which local non-profits or service organizations will be able to get the word out about their activities. In addition to the Women of Wilmington and the Book Store Next Door on opening day, you can expect to see the Garden Club, the Harnden Tavern, Wilmington Memorial Library, and the Chamber of Commerce. Clerk for the market association Dawn Reidy says, "Even as Wilmington continues to grow, it still has a small-town feel, and our hope is that the farmers market will contribute to fostering that sense of community."

Stan Danciewicz, web designer for the Association said, "I am so glad that after going to farmers markets in surrounding towns, Wilmington finally will have one. The town really deserves to have its own."

To find out more about the Wilmington Farmers Market, go to www.wilmingtonfarmersmarket.com; while you're there, you can sign up for the mailing list to receive weekly notifications of who is coming to the market, and what they will have for purchase that week.

Steve Bjork (left) was supposed to be installed as the Wilmington Rotary Club's 2011-2012 President in a ceremony at Danversport Yacht Club on Wednesday, June 29. Instead, he skipped the ceremony in order to cook BBQ chicken and pork on the Common for the masses. In a lighthearted moment, Fourth of July Chairman Scott Garratt presented Bjork with an honorary 'Fun on the Fourth gavel' in recognition of his commitment to the community. Spectators on the Common were largely unimpressed with Bjork's selflessness.

Letter to the editor

What a welcome!

Dear Editor,
The Boston Metro Hi-Raiders Train Club were very pleased by the number of Wilmington residents, especially young families, that visited our display on Saturday July 2, on the Town Common. The club is a new edition to the Wilmington Community and we were well received by the Fourth of July Committee and others in the community.

The club, located at 5 Waltham Street, near the Registry of Motor Vehicles in Wilmington, is currently in the process of setting up its large display of model trains. We expect to be open and running by the end of November and at that time will have an open house for the whole community. We anticipate participating in the Christmas festivities this year.

The club wants to thank all for our kind reception

Bob Hilliard

Boston Metro Hi-Raiders Train Club

Happy 4th of July from France! The final leg of my internship has begun, and from now until I come back to the States, I am a counselor during Totally English Days (TED), a camp run by the beautiful vacation center named Champfleuri. Located about thirty minutes away from Albertville, Champfleuri houses about 100 people in five main buildings, one of which is a giant renovated barn with gorgeous stone walls. (Side note—I believe this is the third time I've mentioned a building that was once a barn in my article, can you tell I've been living in the country?)

Each year around sixty-five French kids come to TED to learn English and all about American culture. Also, Champfleuri is a Protestant Evangelical camp, so the counselors are all Christian and we spend time each day talking about and listening to lessons from the Bible. This is my third time as a counselor at TED, and I look forward to being here each year because I love having fun with the teens and participating in the chance to learn about French culture and share with them American culture and language. Also, I believe in the purpose of the camp: not only to help French teens who want to learn English, but also to encourage friendship between French and American campers, with the intention of helping them discover and respond to the Gospel, found in God's word. Champfleuri is a great place to ask questions, find answers and have a lot of fun in the process.

One of my favorite days of TED just happens to be today—July 4th. It's a chance for the American's to be proud of our culture and excitedly share it with the French. Besides myself and the two other interns from Boston, at camp this year there is a large youth group from St. Louis, Missouri, two students and a teacher from a Christian school in Kentucky and two college girls from California. Today we've all been wearing red, white and blue: clothes, stickers, hats and temporary tattoos. This gets the French excited about our culture and gives us a chance to talk about family cookouts going on back home, other American customs (I had a lunch conversation about Thanksgiving today involving the French word for "Turkey" which I now have forgotten). While some French might feel overwhelmed by Americana, we remind them that in ten days they will celebrate their independence on Bastille Day (but really everyone just calls it the 14th of July). Today we sing "God Bless America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" and in ten days they'll all sing "La Marseillaise—recognizable to most Americans as the beginning bars of the Beatles song, "All You Need is Love."

I look forward to Bastille Day for the fireworks. Champfleuri is located on the side of a mountain, so we have a gorgeous view of the valley below—and on a clear night before Bastille Day you can see fireworks popping down below. It's such a strange experience for me to see fireworks as small pinpricks against twinkling city lights. Growing up in Wilmington I always looked forward to our spectacular fireworks display on the 4th of July. I love to lie down on a tarp next to the First Baptist Church and watch the colorful explosions over the tall pines. Fireworks are a good example of a phenomenon I've experienced many times over the past few weeks—they are an experience I know in American culture that is totally different in French culture.

Mary Cote is a resident of Wilmington, a graduate of Lexington Christian Academy class of 2008, and a student of Gordon College majoring in English and minoring in Biblical Studies. She is chronicling her six week internship in France for the Town Crier. She is on a cultural experience and career shadowing internship with a missionary in France. Continue to follow her journey on her blog: mary-cote.blogspot.com.

The Boston Metro Hi-Railers Train Club recently moved its headquarters to Bay Street in Wilmington and participated in this year's Fun on the Fourth festivities with two train displays on the Town Common. On Family Day, youngsters stood transfixed for hours, taking in all the intricate details of the displays and the model trains.

ITHACA, NY - Keegan Sheehy, son of John Sheehy and Marie Sheehy of Tewksbury, was named to the Dean's List at Ithaca College's School of Music for the spring 2011 semester.

To qualify for this academic honor, students must attain a minimum grade point average of 3.5 and complete a minimum of 15 credit hours, of which at least 12 are graded. A grade of D or F or an incomplete in a course automatically disqualifies a student from the dean's list, regardless of the overall GPA attained that semester.

Coeducational and nonsectarian, Ithaca College is a nationally recognized independent college of some 6,300 undergraduates and 400 graduate students. Located in Ithaca, New York, the college offers more than 100 degree programs.

Rich Cappiello came in first place in his age group at the races held at Livingston Park in Tewksbury on the 4th of July.

Meghan O'Rourke earns degree from Clark University

WORCESTER - Meghan L. O'Rourke of Wilmington received a degree from Clark University on Sunday, May 22. O'Rourke graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in Screen Studies.

During the 107th Commencement exercises, Clark awarded 524 bachelor's degrees, 486 master's degrees, and 35 doctorates on Sunday. Alan Khazei, the founder and chief executive officer of Be the Change Inc. and City Year co-founder, delivered the Commencement address.

"It's commonplace to call your generation the leaders of tomorrow - but I don't believe that - you are showing that you're not tomorrow's leaders ... you're leading already today, and I congratulate you for that," he said.

Khazei spoke of his parents' advice and steps he took before pursuing his passion and creating the City Year program. "Trust your gut," he told the graduates. "Try to learn from adversity and rejection as much as from victory and success."

Khazei said that young people have traditionally led great efforts for change. He asked that, as they tackle the everyday challenges of life (finding a job, paying bills, etc.), the graduates also take on bigger, tougher questions and "strive to make world a better place."

Clark's 107th Commencement was the first under the stewardship of Clark's ninth President, David Angel.

Since its founding in 1887, Clark University in Worcester, Mass., has a history of challenging convention. As an innovative liberal arts college and research university, Clark's world-class faculty lead a community of creative thinkers and passionate doers and offer a range of expertise, particularly in the areas of psychology, geography, urban education, Holocaust and genocide studies, environmental studies, and international development and social change. Clark's students, faculty and alumni embody the Clark motto: Challenge convention. Change our world.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

Thumbs up to the Relay for Life Committee for all their hard work in organizing the event. It is great to see such community involvement. Also Thumbs up to the Wilmington Fire Dept for coming down to the event and walking in full gear - impressive!

Wilmington

Thanks to the Wilmington Minutemen for their hard work in serving the best breakfast on the Common. Pancakes and sausage were delicious and cooked right on the Common.

Wilmington

It was great to see the USS Constitution Honor Guard on the town common.

The 4th of July Committee does a great job every year!

Wilmington

THUMBS DOWN to the person who allowed an Ice Cream truck to park in his driveway and make money during the Fireworks Sunday night. Just plain wrong, you took away from the organizations that set up on the Common to raise money. You have NO RESPECT FOR YOUR TOWN.

Wilmington

I was hoping you could submit this for all those people in Wilmington who believe we have our own Boston Bruins player living in Wilmington: As a regular working person who built a home on Boutwell Street, there is not now, nor has there ever been, any professional sports player of any kind living at that address.

I hope this will put some people at ease, and stop them from trying to catch sight of anyone famous.

Tewksbury Library Notes

by Diane Giarrusso

Exploring the dangerous side of Boston

Up coming events at the Tewksbury Public Library include the following:

Boston On Fire:

On Wednesday, July 13 at 6:30 p.m., join Stephanie Schorow, author of "Boston on Fire", to learn about the history of fires and fire fighting in Boston. Topics covered may include dramatic tales of seventeenth-century fires (which were viewed as signs of God's wrath), the 1834 Ursuline convent fire, the Great Fire of 1872, the Chelsea conflagrations of 1908 and 1973, the Vendome Hotel collapse that killed nine firefighters in 1972, and an arson ring that terrorized the city in the 1980s. Particular attention will be paid to the tragic Coconut Grove nightclub fire.

Boston's Mobsters & Gangsters:

On Wednesday, July 20 at 6:30 p.m., join Jay Atkinson-novelist, short story writer, essayist, critic, and investigative journalist-to learn about the career of one of the "good guys" battling Boston's mobsters and gangsters. Atkinson will discuss his book Legends of Winter Hill, which immerses readers in the world of Boston-area mobsters via the career of late detective Joe McCain, one of Beantown's most decorated police officers. A book signing will follow the event.

Boston Law & Order:

On Wednesday, July 27 at 6:30 p.m., join David Kruh, local historian and author, for an evening of Law & Order, Boston-style. In this slideshow, Kruh brings Law & Order to Boston by looking at three high-profile cases from three eras of the city's history: The Boston Massacre, The Parkman Murder, and the Boston Strangler. Together, Kruh and the audience will look at each crime, follow the investigation, and wind up in court, where they'll argue the case and hear the verdict.

Must-See Movie Night:

On Tuesday, July 26 at 5:45 p.m., attend a screening of one of Hollywood's latest DVD releases, "The Lincoln Lawyer" (R, 119 minutes). Starring Matthew McConaughey, Marisa Tomei, and Ryan Phillippe, this legal drama is based on the Michael Connelly book with the same name. Mick Haller, a slick, charismatic Los Angeles criminal defense attorney who operates out of the back of his Lincoln Continental sedan, unexpectedly lands the case of a lifetime defending a rich Beverly Hills playboy who is accused of attempted murder. What initially appears to be a straightforward case with a big money pay-off swiftly develops into a deadly match between two masters of manipulation and a crisis of conscience for Haller. Free popcorn and lemonade will be served. Co-sponsored by the Tewksbury Lions Club.

FINE PRINT:

Registration is strongly recommended for library events as it aids presenters and staff with planning. (No registration needed for Movie Nights.) ## Tewksbury swimmer joins Swim Across America

Makes waves in the fight against cancer

TEWKSBURY - Dave Welch of Tewksbury has joined Swim Across America to make a splash for pediatric cancer survivorship programs at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. The 17th annual Boston Harbor 22-mile relay swim is on Friday, July 15, and the 15th annual DCR Nantasket Beach one-mile and half-mile swims are on Saturday, July 16.

"The swims are a great way for people to come together and participate in a sport they love alongside Olympic swimming legends while raising critical funds for the David B. Perini Jr., Quality of Life Clinic at Dana-Farber," says 1988 Olympic Silver Medalist Janel Jorgensen, who is also the executive director of the organization. "This year Craig Beardsley, Carlton Brunner and Brooke Bennett are among the Olympians scheduled to swim with us."

Every stroke and dollar makes a difference in the fight against cancer. The Boston Harbor swim is an all day event that starts from behind the Boston Harbor Hotel at Rowes Wharf. Swimmers pledge a minimum of $1,500 to participate. Swimmers taking part in the one and half-mile competitive ocean swims at Nantasket Beach in Hull must raise a minimum of $250 each.

Swim Across America is a non-profit corporation that organizes events from Boston to San Francisco to support cancer research at the country's finest hospitals and institutions. Proceeds from the Boston-area swims go directly to the David B. Perini, Jr. Quality of Life Program at Dana-Farber, where experts help pediatric cancer survivors with an array of issues, including long-term effects of treatment, social and psychological concerns and the risk of second cancers.

UniFirst CEO to be featured (again) on CBS's hit series "Undercover Boss"

Rebroadcast to air on Sunday, July 10, 2011 on CBS Television.

WILMINGTON — President and Chief Executive Officer Ronald Croatti of UniFirst Corporation, an industry leader in the supply and servicing of uniforms, workwear, and protective clothing, will once again be featured on the hit CBS-TV series "Undercover Boss" in a rebroadcast of the UniFirst episode on Sunday, July 10 (9-10 pm, ET; 8-9 p.m. CT).

For those who missed the initial airing on CBS this past January 9, the rebroadcast will provide viewers with an opportunity to see the UniFirst CEO wearing a "hippie-type" disguise, while learning the ropes from his employee Team Partners as they apply to certain jobs. The original episode of UniFirst on "Undercover Boss" proved to be the second most watched show in the U.S. for its time slot.

Among the job tasks Croatti is called on to (try and) perform during the program is the unloading and sorting of soiled laundry, operating a "giant" laundering machine, sewing emblems onto uniforms, and carefully pressing customer work shirts. Naturally, the CEO's inexperience in these areas shines though and is highlighted by a humorous "wardrobe malfunction" segment involving his disguise.

"Despite the fact I had some difficulties performing many of the various tasks, I was pleased to see the systems and procedures we have in place to ensure quality and customer satisfaction are working nicely in the field," Croatti said. "The Team Partners who 'trained' me were all exemplary workers who treated me and other co-workers with dignity and respect. And that's extremely important to me because it means our founding family values and family culture are well entrenched throughout our company."

The CBS reality series "Undercover Boss" (www.cbs.com/primetime/undercover\_boss/) follows top-level executives of major national corporations as they slip anonymously into the rank and file of their companies. Each week, a different executive leaves the comfort of the executive suite for undercover missions to see first hand the effects their corporate policies have on employees and the products and services they provide.

UniFirst, a North American leader in the supply and servicing of uniforms, workwear, and protective clothing, outfits more than 1.5 million workers each business day. UniFirst also offers Facility Service programs including floor mats, mops, and restroom products. For more information, contact UniFirst at 800-455-7654 or visit www.unifirst.com.

Atamian Volkswagen Honda helps support 4th of July

4th of July celebration goes on with the help of local businesses

TEWKSBURY - Reed Atamian, President of Atamina Volkswagen Honda Inc., contributed to The Friends of the Tewksbury PAC to ensure the 4th of July celebration continued on this 4th of July. The contribution Atamian Volkswagen Honda is making allowed the town of Tewksbury to put on the good 'ole fashion celebration the town of Tewksbury has had in years past. The celebrations took place on Monday, July 4th at 8:30 a.m. with a continental breakfast at the Livingston Street Recreation Center, track and field games for the children that began at 10 a.m., hot dogs and hamburgers for lunch, and other activities throughout the afternoon. The fireworks display was scheduled to begin at 9:30 p.m.

"The Fourth of July is the quintessential summertime holiday and the town of Tewksbury puts on an incredible afternoon of events along with a spectacular fireworks display in the evening," said

Atamian Volkswagen & Honda, Inc. President Reed Atamian. "I am honored to help the town of Tewksbury bring families together to celebrate America's birthday the way in which I remember as a kid."

"Without the help of businesses such as Atamian Volkswagen Honda Inc., we would not be able to put on these events," said Jerry Selissen Committee Member of The Friends of the Tewksbury PAC. "We began to rely heavily on donations from the community about four or five years ago and Reed Atamian stepped right up. We couldn't continue to put on such a spectacular celebration without him and the contributions of others in the community."

The Volkswagen and Honda franchises are operated at 150 Main Street, Tewksbury, MA, which occupy land from Route 38 to I-495 in Massachusetts.

Reed Atamian has succeeded Bob and Virginia Atamian as Dealer Principal. Reed entered the business in the mid 1980's and has pushed its growth from a few hundred cars a year to several thousand. Reed has been joined by nephew Benjamin, who represents the fourth generation of Atamians in the business. Reed Atamian has also long been active in numerous community and charitable activities throughout the years. Local organizations benefiting from Reed Atamian's sponsorships include the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, The Genesis Fund, The Boys & Girls Club, The Tewksbury Patriotic Activities Committee, T.H.E. FARM Tewksbury, Tewksbury Police Athletic League, The Highland Sports Association of Lowell, Tewksbury Youth Skating Association, Tewksbury Youth Soccer League and Tewksbury Youth Baseball, Local Girls Softball, Ocean Matters, and The Claddagh Fund.

Trips? We got Trips!!! And comedy and Lobstah! (Clams, too)

Tickets for the Mohegan Sun day trip of Monday, August 8 will go on sale Monday, July 11th beginning at 8:15 AM.

This year the Farmer's Market (previously held at the Senior Center) will be held at the Town Hall Common every Thursday from 12:00 Noon to 5:00 PM. It is hoped that we will be able to increase participation by local farmers as the summer unveils. For more information or to register, one may call Linda Brabant at 978-640-4480 Monday through Thursday or e-mail her at lbrabant@tewksbury-ma.gov.

An activities meeting has been scheduled for next Monday evening, July 11th at 4:00 PM. All are welcome to join in planning Senior Center events and activities.

The Golden Age Club (GAC) will meet and hold its Annual Cookout next Thursday, July 14th rather than the usual second Tuesday of the month. Therefore regular Tuesday Zingo activities will be held next Tuesday, July 12th.

Due to the GAC Cookout on Thursday, July 14th, the following activities have been cancelled: Mov'n and Grov'n exercises, congregate lunches; Experience Yoga class; and, Whist.

Valerie Fisher will be conducting her Girl Scout game evening with our Senior Citizens on Monday, July 18th from 5:00 to 7:00 PM. Why not come on down and join in this fun activity and have a few refreshments. One may sign-up at the front desk for this event.

Those people attending the afternoon lunch and dance with entertainment by DJ Jon Mansfield on Monday, July 25th are reminded to purchase tickets by Wednesday, July 20th.

On Friday, July 29th from 8 AM to 5PM, Spay/Mass will be rolling into the Senior Center parking lot with its Catmobile to conduct a Low-Cost Spay/Neuter Clinic. The Spay Package is $100 and the Neuter Package is $75. The package includes: Exam; Flea Treatment;

Spay/Neuter; Vaccines & Deworming. For appointments and information call 888-495-SPAY (7729).

Then on Saturday, July 30th at 8 PM, the Friends of the Elderly will present its first ever "Comedy Night" at the Tewksbury Senior Center. You'll want to purchase tickets ($15/person) early for it is expected to be a sell-out. The show will include headliner Comedian, Jimmy Dunn and will feature Steve Bjork, along with Mike Prior and Steve Maccone...four of the funniest nationally touring comedians working today. Don't miss out; get your tickets now at the Senior Center or from Bill Cunha at 978-640-0619.

The following trips are scheduled for July and August; and, tickets are now available:

July, 20th (Weds.) - A visit to the Museum of Fine Arts to see the "Chihuly: Through the Looking Glass" exhibit of glass works. The trip cost is $36 per person and includes mini coach, a guided tour of the exhibit and a stop off at the "No Name" restaurant for lunch. Lunch will be on one's own at the No Name.

August 2nd (Tues.) - A trip to the Hu Ke Lau in Chicopee for a "Triple Lobster Feast" and a combination Hawaiian show and Barry Manilow impersonator show. This trip cost is $75 per person and includes motor coach transportation, lunch and show. A doggie bag will be provided for those who can't finish all their lobster!

August 8th (Mon.) - Mohegan Sun day trip noted previously in this article at $21 per person.

August 17th (Weds.) - A trip to Ipswich and the famous "Clam Box of Ipswich" Restaurant. The trip cost is $25 plus lunch on one's own. A guided bus tour of historic Ipswich is included.

August 24th (Weds.) - A trip to Provincetown via the new fast ferry which will get everyone to P-Town in 90 minutes. The trip cost is $85 and includes bus transportation to and from Boston, the fast ferry fee and a 5 hour stay at P-Town. Lunch will be on one's own.

Again, Senior Citizens and others are reminded to be cautious in the hot and humid days of summer. One should stay out of the direct rays of the sun during the hottest part of the day, wear light clothing; drink plenty of non-alcoholic beverages and stay cool by using fans or air-conditioners. It is a good idea on such days to get to a Senior Center, Library or a shopping mall to cool off.

A pleasant week is wished to all. God Bless America.

Final performance of Dancing with the Realtors this fall

TEWKSBURY /WILMINGTON - Dancing with the Realtors, a Fundraiser for Habitat for Humanity, will kick up their heels for their final performance on September 30, 2011 at Memorial Hall in Melrose.

"Dancing with the Realtors was the most fun and successful fundraiser Realtors and Associates have ever been involved with, and on September 30, sadly, it will be their last performance," says Linda Covino, creator of Dancing with the Realtors. "It is bitter sweet to end Dancing with the Realtors; it has brought such joy to all who have participated and has given so much to so many, but it is time to move on to new endeavors," says Linda.

"Dancing with the Realtors has had a great run for the past five years. With 11 shows throughout Massachusetts and Maine, it raised a total of $170,000 for local Habitat for Humanity chapters. I thank each and every dancer, sponsor, spectator, and committee member, and the communities at large who have generously supported us over the past 5 years."

Dancers have started their training and will continue through the summer, practicing their steps to perform with their professional partner in the show. There are still a few more openings for anyone who would like to participate as a dancer; no dance experience or partner necessary. Rehearsals are on Wednesday evenings at 6 p.m. at Studio 665 at 17 Campbell Street in Woburn.

Once again, Covino promises lots of new and exciting entertainment. Back by popular demand is host Billy Costa, sure to guarantee lots of fun. The event will also include both live and silent auctions, professional and amateur dance showcases, dance performances to live singing by Realtor Mary Giroux, special guest judges, and so much more. This will be an evening not to be missed.

All past dancers are welcome to join in on September 30, so as to be recognized for their commitment to Dancing with the Realtors.

For tickets, contact Linda Covino at 978-808-3440 Linda@dancingwiththerealtors.com, Beth McGaffigan at 617-543-6663, or Deb Visco 978-771-6201. Visit the facebook page dancingwiththerealtors for updates on our dancers progress. Sponsor opportunities and auction items are welcome.

fully completed this task won the event. Along with the race, there was also a 'best decorated' reward: the team with the most sleek and spiffy bed would receive a prize.

The Wilmington Youth
Hockey team and Women of Wilmington, the first two teams to square off, approached the starting line
and revved their illusory engines. The Youth Hockey team tore open a huge lead, easily defeating the Women of Wilmington team. They collected the necessary six ounces.

Local Heroes, in race two, started off slowly, but then banged to the front. Arlene Ave All-Stars, however, inched by to win the race. Local Heroes would not go gently into that good night, to quote Dylan Thomas, as they took an authoritative lead over Women of Wilmington in race three.

Race Four was Youth
Hockey and Arlene Ave. This one was incredibly close, but Arlene Ave pulled away at the end to win. Race five brought Local Heroes and Youth Hockey to the track. Local Heroes, like a Zdeno Chara slapshot, flung themselves to victory.

The races now had begun to draw to a close. Local Heroes and Arlene Ave emerged as the top two teams and thus had to heave their hospital ity of the donations.

During the school year donations of supplies and fundraising tend to be higher due to school drives, Girl and Boy Scout volunteers, and active church groups. Sometimes these activities wane during the summer. In an effort to reenergize support, Local Heroes is hosting two events this summer.

A golf tournament is planned for August 1 at the Sagamore Golf Club in Lynnfield with a shotgun scramble for $125 per person.
The event will be followed by a cookout at the Knights of Columbus. Those interested should contact Mike Dovidio, Golf Tournament Director, at 617-605-4598.

A motorcycle run, planned for August 27, will be hosted at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks. Twenty dollars nets participants a t-shirt and cookout following the ride. The route has yet to be determined.
Those interested in sponsor-members of the armed forces to present themselves to the crowd. Some had recently finished tours of duty or service altogether. Others were to head off for another round. All, however, received thunderous - the only thing to do so as the threatening weather held off - applause.

He then invited US Senator Scott Brown, the honored guest of the evening - and an over thirty-year member of the National Guard - to address the crowd.

"My wife Gail and I are happy to be here," said Brown.

Senator Brown, adorned in an appropriate red, white, and blue polo, remarked that, "we live in the greatest country in the world." This became even more evident to him after various travels, he said.

He wished the town a happy and safe Fourth of July. He also congratulated Wilmington on its yearly efforts in crafting the annual Independence Day events.

"Any town with a Fourth of July Building is doing things right," he said. He exited the stage to applause.

Town Manager Michael

Caira took to the stage and humorously denounced any potential chance of rain for the evening.

"It will not rain in Wilmington," he said.

He thanked the Fourth of July Committee for a wonderful job. He also recognized Chairman Garrant, noting his hard work in organizing the week-long celebration. He was also highly appreciative of the presence of Senator Brown.

Later, a representative of Liberty Mutual granted Wilmington $10,000, in reward for its victory in the company's 'Bring Back the Fourth' competition. She praised the community's efforts in joining together for the contest, noting that Wilmington has now been victorious for three consecutive Liberty Mutual contests.

Such is the spirit of Wilmington.

After the ceremony, Garrant noted: "It's always a special evening when the community comes together to celebrate the Fourth and honor veterans and service members."

He, too, was pleased that Senator Brown attended and spoke at the event, stating,

"Having Senator Brown with us this evening was a special honor, just as was having the colors presented by the honor guard from the U.S.S. Constitution."

He was excited to begin planning for next year, though he noted Wilmington's predilection for quality over quantity.

"We always strive to do things well," Garrant said. "But bigger isn't always better. If we can't make things better, we'll certainly have to make it bigger."

The Fourth of July Committee, along with additional volunteers, began the cleanup process, with the planning for next year's weekend to follow.

As the sun set, more people began to meander from the carnival to the Common. The Windham Band played patriotic music. Families and friends rested and relaxed together in the balmy summer night, and the spirit of community and togetherness never seemed more apparent.

Then, of course, came the fireworks, which danced across the sky in a fantastic display of color and light.

US Senator Scott Brown joined Wilmington on the Common on July 3, and took time out to meet and greet many of the residents.

Town Manager Michael Caira accepts a check for $10,000 from Liberty Mutual representative Kara Shipulski for Fourth of July fireworks. ## Major All-Star team picks up first victory

By KIP HORAHAN
Sports Correspondent

After a disappointing loss to Woburn 10-3 last week in the Massachusetts District 13 Tournament, the Wilmington Little League 12-year-old All-Star Baseball team evened up its tournament record with a 6-3 victory over Wakefield played Tuesday night at Rotary Park.

Wakefield struck first in the top of the first inning with a three-run home run, but the Wildcats easily shook it off and came back to outscore Wakefield 6-0 the rest of the way. Manager Bob Gage was impressed and happy for the team's success.

"The first inning was tough when we went down by those three runs," said Gage. "And then it was nice to see the kids bounce back, and get a couple key hits, and some good fielded plays and we were right there."

Wilmington got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the first inning as Max Hubbard showed off his tremendous speed by swiping a few bases before coming around to score the team's first run.

Wilmington was able to keep Wakefield off the board in the top of the second on a terrific double play. Then in the home half, Hubbard belted a two-run double to tie the game up at 3-3.

Wakefield had a golden chance to retake the lead in the third inning but Wilmington pitcher Darin MacEcheron became more confident when he struck out the final two batters in the inning to escape further trouble. Then in the home half, Wilmington took the lead behind a two-run triple by Jared Spinney, who drove in Mike Cocca and David Woods, who started the inning with a double and a single, respectively.

The fourth inning created a change as the five substitutes were given a chance to play. Yet the Wildcats should no signs of slowing down. Jack Bertolami at shortstop made a couple nice plays in both the fourth and fifth innings. Wilmington demonstrated another double play, a 6-4-3 gem to close the top of the fourth inning.

In the fifth inning, again MacEcheron and Bertolami made outstanding plays to quickly stop Wakefield and only allow one hit during the inning. The bottom of the fifth showed a slight improvement in batting with three singles, including a hit from Justin Collins.

By the sixth and final inning, Wilmington displayed no desire to quit as each and every player was focused on the task at hand. By this point, Wakefield was in a tough spot mentally, with only one last chance to make up the three runs they were behind. MacEcheron had no intent of giving up any more runs and wanted to secure the victory. Gracefully but powerfully, MacEcheron struck out three Wakefield batters in a row to end the game.

Wilmington was able to add a win to their record in the Massachusetts District 13 Tournament. Overall, Bob Gage was thoroughly impressed with his pitcher's performance.

"We don't have one of those flame throwers; we got about three or four that are the same," he remarked.

Nevertheless, MacEcheron was able to throw eight strikeouts, three of which were in the final inning. A strong defense supplied the rest of the outs through a combination of fly and ground balls. The two double plays were crucial to the mentality of the team by giving the players assurance in their abilities and allowing them to relax and play a relatively smooth game.

The Wildcats' next game is this Friday again at Rotary Park in Wilmington against their new contender of North Reading. When asked what the team could do to improve for the game on Friday, Gage replied, "I'd like to get some more hitting."

The Wilmington team features Bertolami, Cocca, Justin Collins, Kyle Collins, Edmond D'Angelis, Robbie Ducharme, Sean Higgins, Hubbard, Justin Kannally, MacEcheron, Will Mills, Colin Murphy, Spinney, and David Woods.

Tewksbury Open Tennis event serves up a winner

By: KYLIE SEDGWICK
Sports Correspondent

The Friends of Tewksbury Tennis hosted the first ever Tewksbury Open at the Livingston Street Complex over two days this past week starting Friday and concluding on Saturday. The gorgeous weather attracted spectators who were lucky enough to witness the great sportsmanship and quality exhibited by the players.

The tournament was held to get more people involved around town and as a starting off point for raising interest about the Friends of Tewksbury Tennis. The Friends of Tewksbury Tennis is a non-profit booster club started at the beginning of 2011. Their mission is to support high school tennis, promote tennis within the town, and to encourage the plan for new courts as part of the construction of the new high school.

Friday evening, the two junior girls who entered played each other, with 12-year-old Sarah Oakes defeating Anagha Late 6-2, 6-0. Oakes attends St. Jeanne d'Arc School in Lowell. She plays for her team and at Trull Brook Tennis Center.

"I hope to play high school tennis and might try a USTA tournament this summer too," said Oakes.

The women's doubles match TMHS tennis team members, Meaghan Keene and Natasha Kuegler faced off against their mothers, Lisa Kuegler and Donna Keane. In a tough and fun battle, the daughters pulled off a win in a match tiebreak-er, 6-7(5), 6-2, 10-4 (MTB).

In the women's singles the three competitors played pro sets (best out of ten games). Lindsey McQuesten fell in her match by a 10-4 score. On Saturday the mens' singles took place. The competitors were divided into an A and B group based on ability. In the B group final, 18-year-old Josef Villeneuve defeated Gunther Martin 7-5, 6-0. He, like many other players gained interest through the internet or the newspaper.

"My mom happened to stumble across it on the internet and suggested that I should give it a go. I love to play tennis so I could not resist," he said.

The A group was full of talented men of all ages. In the end, it was Brian Campbell who defeated Carl Bellin 6-3 6-2.

"I absolutely enjoyed playing, I had a lot of fun and was glad to see such a good turn out for the first of hopefully many tennis tournaments in Tewksbury," said Campbell. "I know Mary (MacDonald) was happy with the results and I'll do what I can to come help again next year."

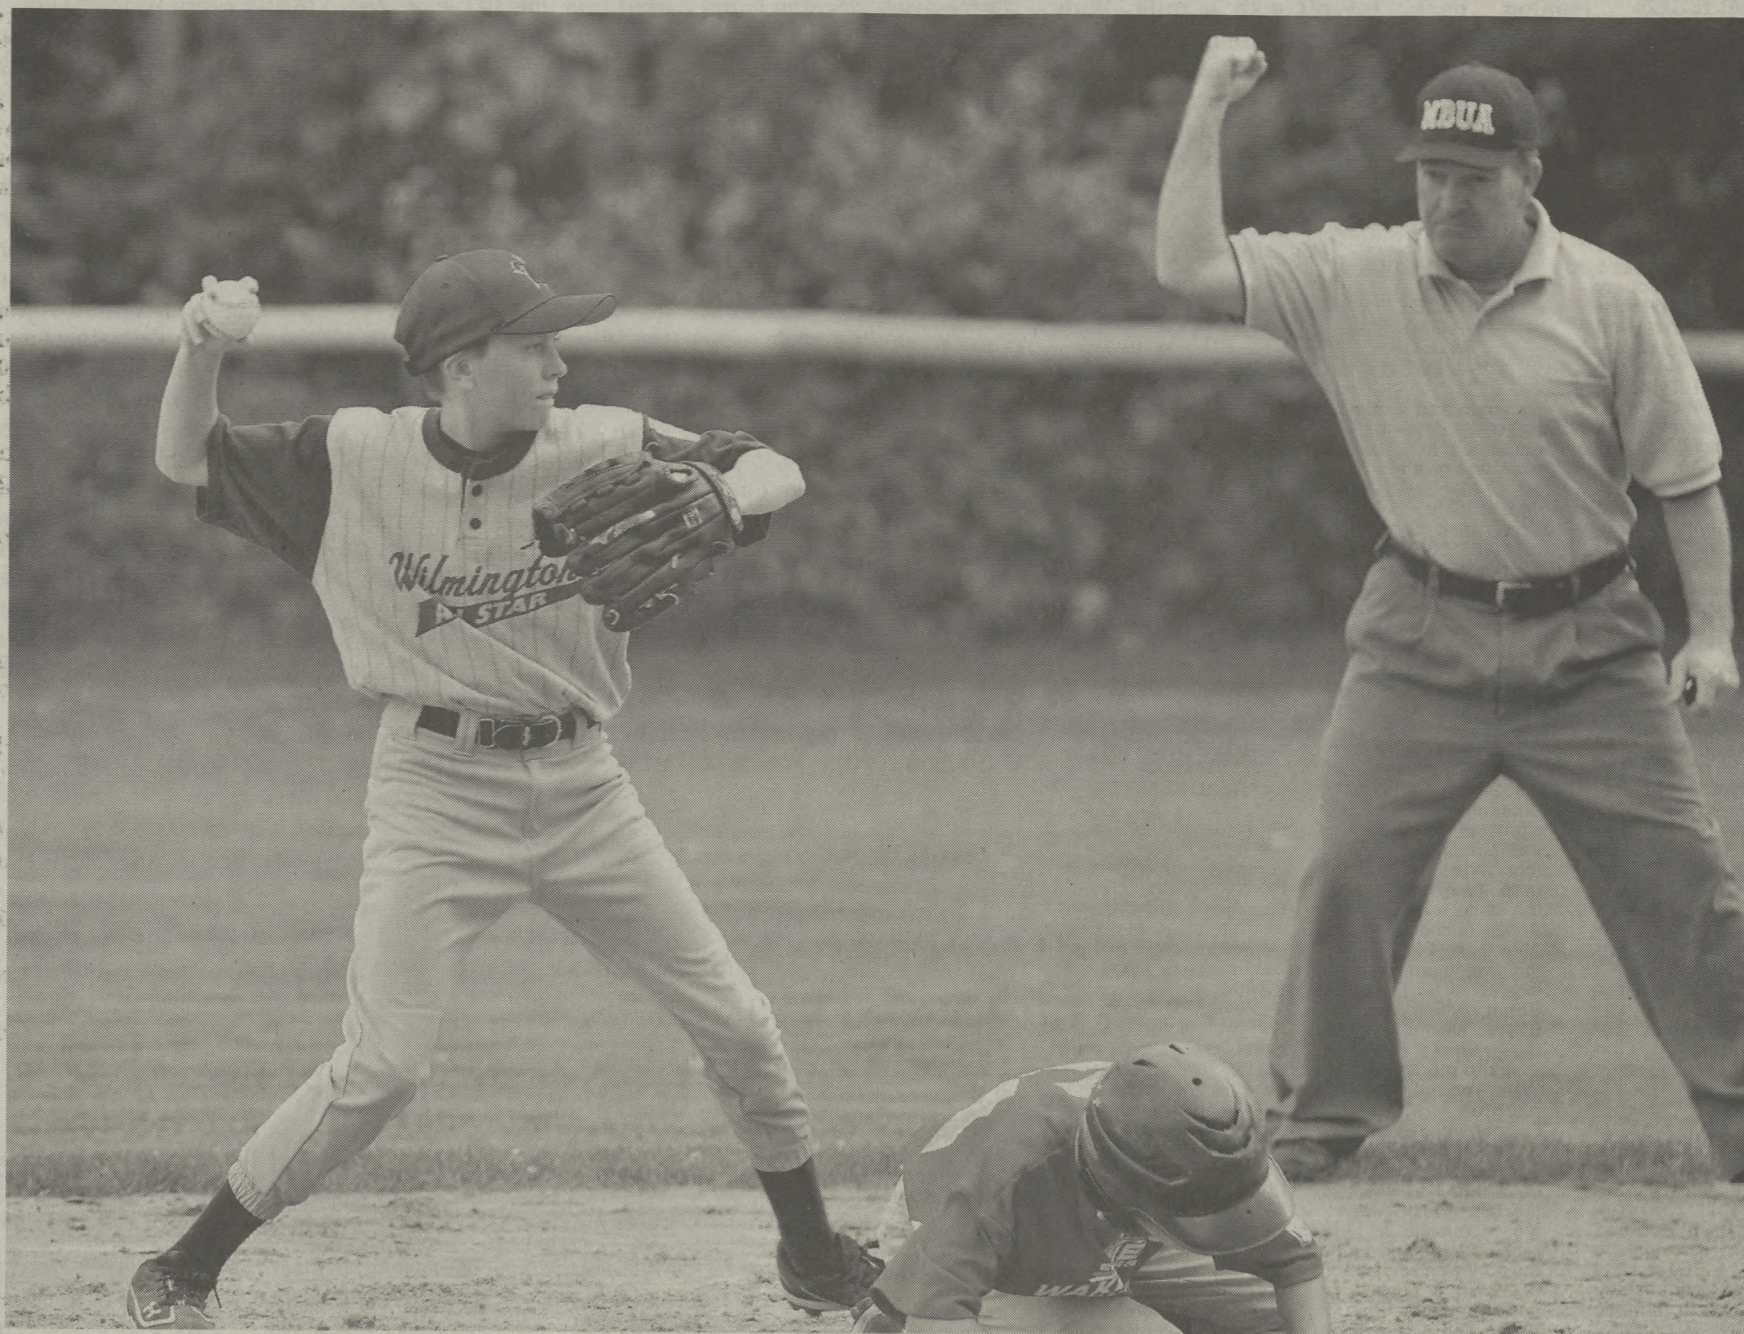

Campbell said Bellin was a tough opponent.

"We play against each other a lot in doubles but that was the first time we'd ever played singles against each other," said Campbell. "He's a very good and aggressive net player, and we both have similar games, usually consisting of a good return of serve followed by coming to net and closing in. I got the best of him the other day, but I'm sure he'd like a rematch."

Campbell plays for the club tennis team at UMass Amherst. He is also the president.

If you missed this tournament, don't fret; there are more plans in the works for more tennis around town.

"We are talking about having Saturday morning play mostly for adults in the fall," said Mary MacDonald, coach of the TMHS tennis team, Tewksbury resident, and a member of the Friends of Tewksbury Tennis. "We are considering holding another tournament in the fall."

hit into consecutive fielder's choices before Lauren McKenna walked to load the bases. Harper scored on a wild pitch and then Kim Woods singled, driving in Kennedy with Wilmington's final run.

Defensively, opening game jitters may have led to several errors but in the fourth inning there two solid plays. Jackie Parece, at third base, made a nice play on a hard grounder and then fired to Kennedy at second for the force. Later in the inning, with the bases loaded, Kennedy fielded a grounder to the right side and threw to Katherine McKenna behind the plate for the out at home. On the mound, Casey MacDonald struck out six and got out of a few jams, stranding eight Methuen runners.

On Thursday the Wildcats returned home to face Saugus. Megan Howland took the mound and scattered seven hits and struck out four on the way to a 12-6 Wilmington win. She kept Saugus scoreless until the sixth inning.

Wilmington picked up a run in the first when Jackie Kennedy singled, stole second and third and then crossed the plate on a wild pitch. It was a 1-0 game until the fourth when the Wildcats got five runs on four hits. With the bases loaded, Katherine McKenna doubled home both Lauren McKenna and Kim Woods. Alliy Gemellaro would then score when Howland reached on an error. Kennedy Harper's bunt single scored Jenna Domek for the fifth run.

After Saugus scored their first run in the top of the sixth, Wilmington came back and scored six more in the home half. With the bases loaded a Nicole Potcner walk scored Katherine McKenna. Harper singled, knocking in Domek. Kennedy then walked scoring Casey MacDonald. Lauren McKenna cleared the bases when she laced a double to

After some shaky fielding behind her led to five Saugus runs in the top of the seventh, Howland put down the final three batters to clinch the victory. Prior to the seventh, the Wildcat defense was solid. Woods in center fielded a base hit barehanded and fired to second to get the batter trying to stretch it into a double. In the sixth, MacDonald in right field alertly backed up firstbase, fielding an overthrow and tagging out the runner who had made the turn. Gemellaro at shortstop made several nice plays and Howland picked up three assists on comebacks to the mound.

Wilmington travels to Lunenburg this week for their only game before returning next week for two at home against Belmont and Reading and then a game under the lights in Lawrence.

Girl Scouts receive Gold Award

WILMINGTON - Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts is proud to announce Wilmington Girl Scouts Ceara Dembrowski and Lindsay Mercer received their Girl Scout Gold Award pins on Wednesday, June 22 at a ceremony at the Holiday Inn & Suites in Marlborough. The event was attended by family, friends and Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts' CEO Ruth N. Bramson and Board President, Peggy Stevens.

The Girl Scout Gold Award is the highest award that a Girl Scout can achieve. The Gold Award is something that fulfills a need within a girl's community whether local or global, creates change, and is something that becomes ongoing. The project is more than a good service project—it encompasses organizational, leadership, and networking skills. Only about 5 percent of all Girl Scouts earn this award each year.

Ceara Dembrowski's "Signs for Silver Lake" project was created to generate pride at Silver Lake and bring awareness to its ecosystem. Dembrowski organized an information day and presented to local day camps. Her presentation, not only educational but also interactive and had fun games geared towards helping children identify members of the ecosystem. Dembrowski also created a brochure on the history and ecosystem of Silver Lake, and can be found at the Recreation Department and Town Hall and on display at the lake.

Lindsay Mercer's "Farm Animal Enrichment Structure & Education" project was spurred by Mercer's passion for animals. Her Silver Award project focused on issues animals face as pets in the home and outdoors. For her Gold Award project, she wanted to help farm animals. Inspired by Massachusetts Animal Rights Coalition (MARC) and the work done by the Sunny Meadow Sanctuary whose mission it is to save farm animals no longer needed on farms from slaughter, Mercer with the help of volunteers built exercise and play structures for the goats at Sunny Meadow Sanctuary. After receiving the initial design from MARC, she researched and reworked the designs to be better structured and more efficient in materials. Mercer built two structures, recruited help and donations for the shelter and produced flyers to educate the public on the Sanctuary's efforts. Mercer also created and served vegan meals to help promote veganism.

Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts serves more than 40,000 girls ages 5-17 and 17,000 adult volunteers in 178 communities across Eastern Massachusetts with the mission to build girls of courage, confidence and character, who make the world a better place. The Girl Scouts provide girls with the opportunity to DISCOVER their world, CONNECT with and build an understanding for others and TAKE ACTION to make the world a better place. Girls are guided by committed and caring adults who make learning fun. Girl Scouting helps each girl achieve her personal leadership pathway to the future. The Girl Scouts organization has a rich history and has been the nation's leading expert on girls for nearly 100 years. ## Toland wins scholarship NMTW Community Credit Union (NMTW CCU) is proud to announce the local winners of its 18th annual scholarship program. NMTW CCU's scholarship program has awarded more than 200 students money to assist with the pursuit of higher education since the program's inception in 1994.

This year's winners is Ashley Toland of Tewksbury.

"We are happy to support our younger members as they pursue their dreams of higher education," stated NMTW Community Credit Union President and CEO Ken Del Rossi. "The cost of education continues to increase and we know that every little bit helps, so through our scholarship program as well as our low rate student loan product, we aim to do just that."

NMTW CCU membership is open to anyone who lives, works, or attends school in Middlesex or Essex counties in Massachusetts, several cities and towns within Norfolk and Worcester Counties in Massachusetts, and Rockingham and Hillsborough counties in New Hampshire. ## National Mall Liberty Fund Reading Selectmen endorse African- American Patriots memorial on Mall

By PAUL FEELY

In recent weeks, the Reading Board of Selectmen pledged its support behind a national effort to authorize a memorial commemorating African-American patriots at a site between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, DC.

In the coming weeks and months, more local officials throughout the Middlesex East readership area may do the same.

The Reading Selectmen voted to sign a resolution backing the efforts of Sen. Joseph Lieberman of Connecticut and Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa to have S. 883, the National Liberty Memorial Act, passed. The act has been introduced in the U.S. Senate, and would provide for the construction of an entirely citizen-funded memorial to African-Americans of the Revolutionary War.

Reading was home to 10 such patriots, according to paperwork provided to Board members prior to the meeting.

What's also interesting is the number of African-American patriots the entire Middlesex East readership area was home to.

According to the same paperwork provided to the Reading Selectmen that is referenced above, Woburn was home to 16 African-American patriots, Wilmington 1, Tewksbury 4, and Stoneham 11.

The National Mall Liberty Fund DC ("Liberty Fund DC") is a nonprofit organization incorporated in the District of Columbia.

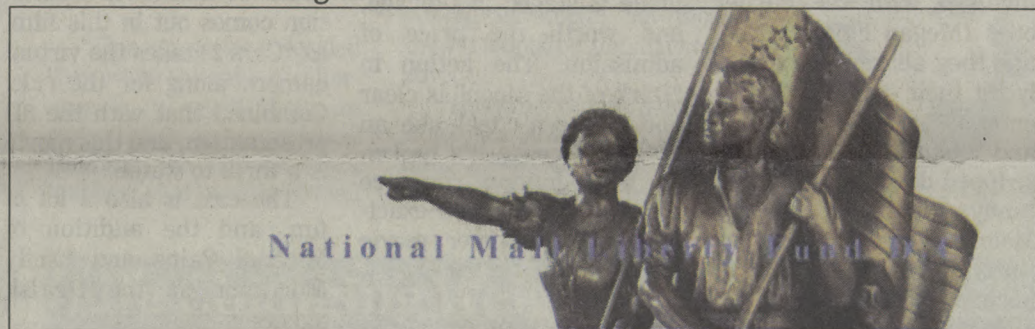

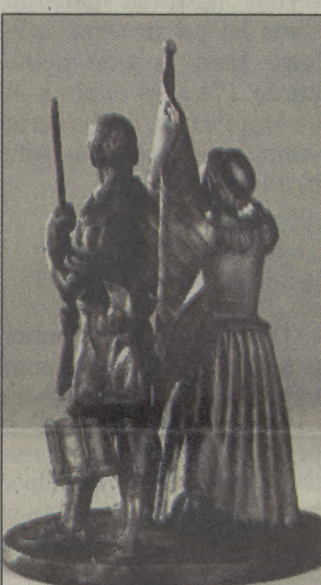

The Liberty Fund DC believes that a memorial to African Americans of the Revolutionary War will inspire youth to achievement and exemplary citizenship. The memorial will demonstrate historic African American values at work in the founding of the nation and in the achievement of liberty.

Organizers believe the National Liberty Memorial will promote healing of long-festering wounds that date from slavery and the battle against segregation and discrimination.

Once the memorial is constructed, organizers say that interactive programs will educate citizens about the contributions of African Americans to the Revolutionary War and their influence on subsequent generations.

CONCEPTUAL DESIGN - While no design concept has been selected for the National Liberty Memorial, this conceptual design was executed in 2005. Elements of any future design will include figurative sculpture bounded by a green landscaped precinct and wall of relief sculpture and engravings. The design will pull the surrounding landscape, including other memorials and historic buildings and events associated with them, into the precinct to tell the story of African Americans during the Revolutionary War. The memorial would be located on the National Mall in Washington D.C.

The memorial will encourage genealogical and historical research to uncover connections between these forgotten patriots and Americans from all backgrounds.

According to information provided by the National Mall Liberty Fund, there were approximately 500,000 African Americans in America when the Revolutionary War began - about 20 percent of the population. Most were held in servitude against their will. Between 1775 and 1783, an estimated 5,000 to 10,000 enslaved and free blacks voluntarily fought in the army, navy and militia. They served side-by-side with whites in all of the major battles, from Lexington and Concord to Yorktown.

Initially, blacks were barred from service for fear they might be untrustworthy. Free blacks of Boston, who were already serving, protested. And the order partially was reversed. By 1778, as the war effort was sagging, African Americans were welcomed, and efforts were initiated to raise all-black regiments.

African American soldiers hailed from all the original states, but a majority were from the North. Spanish Louisiana under Bernardo de Galvez enlisted hundreds locally and from foreign sources to support the Americans. Most served in integrated units, although Rhode Island and Massachusetts boasted notable all-black regiments.

Many blacks served as substitutes for their masters, fought alongside them or ran away and enlisted - sometimes under assumed names to hide their identity.

The list of African Americans who hailed from Reading (which included Wakefield and North Reading at the time of the War) and served in the Revolutionary War includes:

TRANSFORMERS: DARK OF THE MOON

SHIA LABEOUF AND ROSIE HUNTINGTON-WHITELEY appear in "Transformers: Dark of the moon". The action in "Dark of the Moon" is clear and it doesn't feel like an assault because it's broken up with humor, romance and a little mystery - exactly what a summer movie should be.

"TRANSFORMERS:
DARK OF THE MOON"
GRADE: ***

The first "Transformers" movie was a decent mix of special effects and nostalgia for aging sci-fi fans. The second installment of the series, "Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen" was a waste of time for all involved, including anyone in the audience who purchased a ticket.

The third time appears to be the charm. In "Transformers: Dark of the Moon", director Michael Bay has finally found the right mix of action, humor, and special effects that bring this popular animated series to life on the big screen - and in 3D.

The new movie was made by most of the same people involved with the earlier ones (Megan Fox is gone), and they all have apparently hit their stride with this entry. What was once loud and chaotic has become stripped down, exciting and funny in "Dark of the Moon," which begins by working in actual events in history - it claims that, in addition to being the first men on the moon, Buzz Aldrin and Neal Armstrong were also on a secret mission to investigate the discovery of one of the Transformers ships - and then shifts into a battle for control of Earth between the bad transformers and good transformers, assisted by Shia LaBeouf's character of Sam. This time Frances McDormand is along for the ride, playing the no-nonsense director of national intelligence.

Julie White and Kevin Dunn return as Sam's bossy parents, along with John Turturro (revealing the half-crazy portrayal of an agent he hinted at in the earlier films. This time the young romance featured is between Sam and Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, replacing Fox.

Even the robots have heart this time, displaying a wide range of emotions even as they are transforming (there's a great sequence when Sam is rescued, in slow motion, by a transformer that turns into a very safe car to rest in).

The film's explosive finale is staged in Chicago, and worth the price of admission. The action in "Dark of the Moon" is clear and it doesn't feel like an assault because it's broken up with humor, romance and a little mystery - exactly what a summer movie should be.

"CARS 2"
GRADE: ***

This high-speed sequel returns most of the original cast, and while the story isn't quite as good as the original, its still a pretty good time at the movies.

The storyline plays out as follows: star racecar Lightning McQueen (Owen Wilson) and this friend the tow truck Mater (Larry the Cable Guy) take their friendship to exciting new places when they head overseas to compete in the first-ever World Grand Prix to determine the world's fastest car.

But the road to the championship is filled with plenty of potholes, detours and hilarious surprises when Mater gets caught up in an intriguing adventure of his own: international espionage. Mater finds himself torn between assisting Lightning McQueen in the high-profile race and towing the line in a top-secret mission orchestrated by master British super spy Finn McMissile (Michael Caine) and the stunning spy-in-training Holley Shiftwell (Emily Mortimer).

Some critics have complained that this movie lacks the heart of some of the better Pixar films, and they have a point. The plot isn't a story of discovery like the first "Cars," as we watched McQueen transform from a cocky speedster to a good friend and nice guy. Instead, this film places familiar characters in a different situation. While on his adventures Mater does experience a certain level of self-discovery as he discovers how the world perceives him, but everyone else remains the same throughout the film.

One part of "Cars 2" that works well is the fact that it's less NASCAR and more of an action-adventure.

It's a fun movie. The usual brilliance in animation comes out in this film, as "Cars 2" takes the virtual camera along for the ride. Combined that with the 3D presentation, and this movie is a thrill to watch.

The cast is also a lot of fun, and the addition of Michael Caine and Emily Mortimer as the British agents is great.

"Cars 2" is harmless and fun. It's not the best movie Pixar has churned out - not even close - but it is fun to watch, and the kids will love it.

"GREEN LANTERN"
GRADE: **

In a summer filled with movies about comic book superheroes, this film falls short of those that have already hit the screen. Lacking in plot, heart, and acting performances, it hopes to dazzle and draw in audiences based on its 3D special effects.

For those unfamiliar with the plot of the long-running DC Comics series, the story unfolds like this: In a universe as vast as it is mysterious, a small but powerful force has existed for centuries. Protectors of peace and justice, they are called the Green Lantern Corps.

A brotherhood of warriors sworn to keep intergalactic order, each Green Lantern wears a ring that grants him superpowers. But when a new enemy called Parallax threatens to destroy the balance of power in the Universe, their fate and the fate of Earth lie in the hands of their newest recruit, the first human ever selected: Hal Jordan (Ryan Reynolds).

Hal is a gifted and cocky test pilot, but the Green Lanterns have little respect for humans, who have never harnessed the infinite powers of the ring before.

Jordan is a hot-shot and reckless test pilot for Ferris Aircraft, who was dating the owner's twentysomething test pilot daughter Carol Ferris (Blake Lively) before she dumped him as a bad risk. He's always trying to prove he's as fearless as his deceased test pilot father. His immature actions during a test flight get him in trouble with his boss, but soon afterward Hal gets called to the aid of a dying alien, Abin Sur (Temuera Morrison), who crash-landed on Earth after losing a fight to the Parallax.

Abin Sur is a Green Lantern, who says the ring has chosen Hal to take his place. With that Hal becomes the first human to join the Corps of the Green Lanterns, uttering the oath "Let those who worship evil's might beware my power - Green Lantern's light!"

Lively is miscast as the pilot/executive and romantic lead, never convincing in the role. Reynolds doesn't come across as a superhero, trying hard to generate some laughs in what could have been a good action movie. It's hard to pin it all on him though, as the script seems to be severely lacking in all areas.

"SUPER 8"

One of the more anticipated movies of the summer, "Super 8" harkens back to movies like "The Goonies" or "E.T.," which celebrated the mysteries of childhood as much as the elements of danger and the unknown featured in their plots.

In "Super 8", writer/director J.J. Abrams teams with producer Steven Spielberg for a period sci-fi thriller set in the late '70s, and centering on a mysterious train crash in a small Ohio town.

In the summer of 1979, a group of young friends are filming a Super-8 movie when a pickup truck derails a speeding train. When the locals start to disappear and even the inquisitive deputy can't come up with answers, suspicions emerge that the incident was anything but an accident.

As the truth finally begins emerge, no one is prepared to learn what now stalks the unsuspecting citizens of this once quiet community.

The kids are shooting a zombie movie with their Super 8 camera. They set up their camera one night near a local rail yard, a move the film's director (Riley Griffiths) hopes will boost the production values on his flick. But in the middle of the shoot a train derails, sending the kids running for cover.

"The board members did partake in discussions explaining why they ultimately opposed the applicant's proposal of a 40,000-square-foot building with underground and above-ground parking.

"Board member Ernie Covino, who was one of the board members on the subcommittee for the project, stressed that the members tried 'very hard' to make the proposal work.

"He noted that the applicants were asked to decrease the size of building and try to pursue the implementation of an access road, but reiterated that the proponents could not complete those tasks.

"It is like trying to fit a square peg into a round hole," said Covino of the proposal, noting that the size of the plan was too much for the former Burlington Dodge site to handle. The property has been rezoned to a Planned Development District.

"Also on the project's subcommittee, Chairman Paul Roth stated that he had a 'multitude' of issues with the site and its limitations, which he said was well-known to the applicants...."

-Northwest to South America (Wilmington)- "Before the summer is out, one teacher and seven students from Wilmington High School will head to the northwestern part of South America to spend a month in Ecuador, camping, hiking, and helping out in a small community," notes the Wilmington "Town Crier."

"This group has decided they want to make a difference in a world they are eager to see and experience. Helming the trip is Math teacher and coach David Sundberg; along for the experience are Beatrice Banda, Connor Burke, Jack Campbell, Sarah Luz, Derek Mayo, Rachel Mellen, and Thomas Rossetti."

-A perfect combination (Stoneham)- "The Stoneham Senior Center has proved itself many times over to be the ideal setting for nurturing intergenerational relationships," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"And a new program that began in September and has concluded has illustrated once again the valuable influence senior citizens and kids can have on one another.

"Middle school-aged students from the Seem Collaborative at the East School on Beacon Street visited the Stoneham Senior Center every Wednesday morning during the school year for a creative art lesson provided by Stoneham resident and artist Howard Porter.

"Art Is Music" is the brainchild of Senior Center Director Maureen Canova, Seem Collaborative Clinical Social Worker Domini Piaseczynski, and Porter who saw an opportunity for middle school students and senior citizens to come together in a creative endeavor, where they could sing, draw and socialize while developing bonds of friendship.

"It worked. A group of students met with a group of seniors each Wednesday and never knew what Porter had waiting for them, but they knew it would be fun and creative.

"Howard has done a terrific job. He always had something prepared...and something different each week,"

Canova said about the various art projects put to music as well as fun sing-alongs.

"It's been a wonderful experience for our kids to be part of," Piaseczynski said.

"Prior to becoming director of the Senior Center, Canova interned with Piaseczynski at Seem as part of the Masters in Social Work degree she is pursuing. The two have kept in touch and in the interest of continuing to develop intergenerational programs, they felt that the kids at Seem's Therapeutic Learning Center at the East School and the seniors would be a good match. With Porter, they came up with a creative art program with a musical element.

"Canova is proud of the seniors who have become such great influences on the students.

"The seniors here absolutely love it. It's a way for them to give back...It's magical...."

Life Changing Weight Loss in 4 Months

BEFORE

When I began my weight loss journey at Get In Shape for Women, I was feeling pretty hopeless about ever looking good again. My weight had been slowly creeping up in my late 30's, despite several attempts at different exercise programs. Well-meaning friends and family told me that getting heavier was just a consequence of age and that there was nothing I could do about it. I was tired and more importantly I looked and felt terrible. I lost 3 pounds my very first week and I haven't looked back since. I have lost 45 pounds in 4 months and I'm so happy with the way I look but most importantly with the confidence I've regained.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Who was the first PGA Golf Professional to win $1,000,000 in a single season?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•The Reading-North Reading Chamber of Commerce will be holding a 5K Family Fun Run on July 20, 2011. This is the second year for this 5K format that replaced the annual 5 Mile Showcase road race.

"This race format is more family-friendly and the best way to appeal to everyone," said John Murphy, Chamber President and Chairman of the committee. "Last year many racers and their families arrived early or stayed late to enjoy the summer concert series and BBQ hosted by North Reading's Parks & Rec's department."

The event, which is named "Run for Your Supper" will be held at 6:15 pm on Wednesday, July 20, 2011 at Ipswich River Park in conjunction with Parks and Recreation's Summer BBQ Concert series.

All runners will receive a coupon for a free race meal along with a t-shirt and other race goodies. Entry fees will be kept low and are $10 students, $20 adults and $40 for a family of four. A business team category has also been added to this year's race with an entry cost of $75 per team which has a maximum of five runners. Runners are encouraged to pre-register as fees increase by $5 in every category the day of the race.

Registration forms are available on the Chamber's web site www.readingreadingchamber.org or visit www.coolrunning.com for on line registration. For complete details or to become a sponsor of the race contact Executive Director Irene Collins at 781-944-8824/978-664-5060 or email.

•On August 6 and 7, 28 residents from Reading will ride in the 32nd annual Pan-Massachusetts Challenge (PMC), the nation's pioneer charity bike-a-thon that raises more money than any other athletic fundraising event in the country. They will be among 5,000 cyclists who will ride with the collective goal of raising $34 million to support lifesaving adult and pediatric cancer care and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through its Jimmy Fund.

This year's event offers a new 25-mile route, which will be added to the 10 existing routes that range from 47 to 190 miles. The varying routes and fundraising minimums make it possible for anyone with a bike and determination to participate.

PMC riders range in age from 13 to 87. Some are seasoned tri-athletes while others are weekend warriors having trained for this event alone. "Our cyclists come from all walks of life, from stay-at-home mothers to corporate CEOs to police officers," says Billy Starr, PMC founder and executive director. "The PMC unifies them with one mission — finding cures for cancer."

The PMC is all about heart and soul. Doctors ride along side their patients; grandparents ride with their grandchildren; and almost everyone rides on behalf of loved ones lost to, or battling, cancer. More than 300 riders are cancer survivors or current patients.

During PMC weekend, individual cyclists become part of one family. The camaraderie shared by 5,000 cyclists, 3,000 volunteers, and thousands of spectators, is one reason cyclists from 34 states and six countries return to Massachusetts each August to participate in the PMC.

•SAMMY MACY, A SENIOR FROM TEWKSBURY, MASS., was named the recipient of the 2010-11 Honda Division II Athlete of the Year award, the Collegiate Women's Sports Awards (CWSA) committee announced last week.

The College Women's Sports Awards program, presented by Honda, is in its 35th year and honors the outstanding student-athletes in Division I, II and III. The awards are based upon athletic achievement and academic standing as well as leadership and campus/community involvement.

Macy will be honored at the Honda Awards Dinner at the Park Lane Hotel in Manhattan on Sunday, June 26 and at the 2011 press conference Monday, June 27 (10:30 a.m.), at Columbia University's Low Library.

Macy will join the Division III recipient, Kendra Stern of the Amherst College swim team, as well as the Division I recipient, to be announced. With the award, Honda will donate $5,000 to UMass Lowell's women's athletic programs.

"I am so honored and so humbled by this award," Macy said. "To even be considered for the Honda award is an honor, but to win it is a dream. This could not have been possible without the support of our coaching staff and especially my teammates at UMass Lowell. The year we had was unforgettable and everything we accomplished, we accomplished together. This award is something I will certainly cherish forever."

Macy was selected from a field of 11 Division II finalists over 11 different sports.

Macy is the first to receive the honor on several fronts: She is the first-ever Division II student-athlete from the Northeast-10 Conference, New England or East Region to receive the award. She is also the first field hockey player to earn the distinction in the CWSA program's 24 years of honoring Division II athletes.

"Sammy's name is synonymous with passion, pride and perseverance," said UMass Lowell head coach Shannon Hlebichuk. "She has truly embraced the game of field hockey and her involvement off the field has been remarkable."

Perhaps UMass Lowell's greatest player, Macy enjoyed a storied career in which she emerged the program's all-time leading scorer as a junior, and capped her career with 91 goals and 38 assists (220 points).

Macy was among the catalysts of UMass Lowell's 2010 season which saw the River Hawks post a 24-0 record and capture their second NCAA Championship in six years with a 1-0 triumph over Shippensburg University.

Macy scored a single season record 30 goals and dished out 16 assists and led Division II in points per game with 3.17. She scored two or more goals in eight games, notched three hat tricks and peaked with five goals in a 6-0 win at Indiana (Pa.).

"Sammy not only led the team in scoring for three straight years, but she is also second among all-time assist leaders," Hlebichuk noted. "She is not just a finisher, but a smart playmaker and a selfless teammate — a rare combination."

A three-time All-American, Macy led UMass Lowell to a four-year record of 81-14 (.853 winning percentage) which included appearances in four straight NCAA championship games. Additionally, the River Hawks captured the NE-10 Tournament in 2007 and 2010 as well as the NE-10 regular season in 2007, 2008 and 2010.

Perhaps most impressive, Macy came back from anterior cruciate ligament tears in 2008 and 2009. "She never came back the same player," said Hlebichuk. "She always came back even stronger. She put in whatever time and effort was necessary to rehab her knee. She never complained once."

Macy has also been an exemplary student and leader on campus. She graduated with a 3.12 in criminal justice, and has been involved in community service efforts such as Kids Night Out and Bowling for Wishes among many other initiatives.

A 2007 graduate of Tewksbury H.S., Macy is the daughter of Doug and Mary Macy of Tewksbury, Mass.

The free African American population of Boston, New York and Philadelphia rose from 4,000 to over 22,000 by the turn of the 19th century. Slavery was abolished in much of the North by 1785. These patriots laid the foundation for the modern Civil Rights Movement.

Off Route 93

Lowell Junction Interchange project stalled

WILMINGTON - The Lowell Junction Interchange project on Interstate 93 proposed for Wilmington, Tewksbury, and Andover, is stalled due to a lack of funding for the project.

The project proposes the construction of a new interchange on Interstate 93, to be located between the Route 125 and Dascomb Road exits, which would open up currently inaccessible land for development.

Selectmen reviewed a letter sent by the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission (MVPC) - one of three regional planning agencies involved in the project - to two state agencies imploring them to re-engage in the project and brainstorm solutions to identify funding avenues for the interchange.

Despite a high profile meeting last fall at which President Obama's Secretary of Transportation, Ray LaHood, gave strong support of the project and supported a plan that would not force local access to South Street in Tewksbury, no substantive meetings between any parties have occurred in 2011.

The letter from the MVPC, the regional planning agency representing Andover, praised the work of Secretary Gregory Bialecki of the Executive Office of Housing and Economic Development (EOHED) and Secretary Jeffrey Mullan of the Massachusetts Department of Transportation for their work, up until this year, "engaging the project's many municipal, regional, federal, business, and citizen stakeholders."

Last year's debate over the geographical scope of the project, which not only addressed the matter of access to local roads, but also tied the interchange in with an effort to widen the highway to the New Hampshire boarder, effectively derailed the environmental process underway. The debate was settled when Secretary LaHood met with state and local leaders in October, but the delay also halted progress with the EPA and necessary environmental analysis.

The MVPC now must work on its Regional Transportation Plan and needs to include financing for the construction of the Lowell Junction Interchange project in that plan.

Congresswoman Niki Tsongas, who represents Tewksbury and Andover in the 5th Congressional District, has maintained strong support for the project and, according to the letter, her office recently suggested that federal grants could be pursued, but, "the State is not at the table to suggest who would be the applicant or if there is any support for such an approach."

The state financing plan

currently places financing responsibility for this $180 million project on the regions, however major infrastructure funding for just the Merrimack Valley and Northern Middlesex Metropolitan Planning Organizations through the year 2035 totals $131 million, which not only cannot cover the cost of the interchange but must support other critical transportation needs.

The letter asks if any discretionary funding might be available from the life science bond bill, if monies could be raised under the next bond authorization bill, or utilizing the use/build/finance process similar to the Route 3 North project.

Town Manager Michael Cairra began summing up the letter to Selectmen stating, "Funding sources need to be identified, and otherwise we are..."

"...stalled," finished Selectman Michael Champoux, who serves on Wilmington's delegation to the Tri-Town Task Force.

Cairra said the town wants follow-up from Secretaries Bialecki and Mullan addressing concerns raised in the letter and added that Wilmington Director of Planning and Conservation Carole Hamilton and her counterpart in Tewksbury, Steve Sadwick, attended a meeting Monday in Bialecki's office.

Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange ~ MONTHLY PROFILE ~

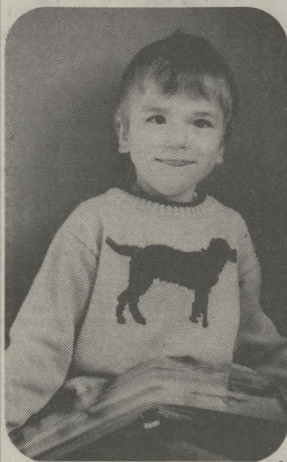

CALL 617-54-ADOPT - WWW.MAREINC.ORG
Once a month Middlesex East will publish a profile of a child that is looking for a home.
If you can help please call or e-mail the MARE agency.

Meet Owen

Hi! My name is Owen. "I love electronic learning games."

Owen is a 7 year old legally free Caucasian boy with blonde hair and big brown eyes. He is quite engaging and loveable. Despite his lack of verbal communication skills, he uses some sign language and has a system of visual cues and pictures that works quite well in his efforts to communicate. He loves musical toys and is fascinated with the electronic aids that are used as learning games on his computer and TV. Owen likes to watch television, especially Elmo, Sponge Bob and Dora the Explorer. Diagnosed with Smith Magenis Syndrome, Owen requires constant care and supervision and attends numerous weekly and ongoing medical and therapeutic appointments. In his third year of pre-kindergarten, Owen is a special student who has an Individualized Education Plan. There is a post adoption agreement in place which allows Owen's birth family three visits a year. The ideal family for Owen would be a two parent family or one with a large support system because of the amount of time needed for his care.

Owen's special wish is to have a family that would shower him with love and affection.

Adoption Event:

Are you a family interested in adopting a child with special needs? The Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) is hosting a small invitation-only adoption party in August that might be perfect for you! We are looking for homestudied families, or families who have already begun the process of being approved for adoption, and who are interested in children with moderate to severe intellectual or physical needs. The party will be a gathering of interested families, available children, and social workers. We will have tailored activities, including therapeutic horseback riding and arts & crafts, and information about support networks. Space is limited, so please contact MARE at 617-542-3678 for further information. We hope to see you there!

Maintain proper humidity for comfort and safety

Humidity can affect how comfortable a person may feel outdoors. However, humidity also affects indoor comfort and the condition of items inside the house. Maintaining proper humidity levels is important.

Humidity is the amount of water vapor in the air. Too much humidity can make the air feel thick and make it hard to breathe. Too little humidity can cause static electricity and dry out the skin. Many people prefer moderate levels of humidity.

According to experts, optimum humidity is between 30 and 60 percent. Anything above or below those percentages can make indoor spaces seem uncomfortable and contribute to certain health problems or deterioration of household structures.

Dry House Concerns

While it would seem a dry house would be ideal, low humidity can cause shrinking and other issues with wood, including causing gaps or loose floor boards. It also may contribute to cracks in plaster or drywall. Eventually pests may be able to enter the house through these points and cause even more destruction. An overly dry house also can be a fire hazard. Static electricity and dry conditions may prove problematic. In terms of health, a dry home can cause skin irritation and dryness of the respiratory system, leaving a person more susceptible to illnesses.

Wet House Concerns

On the opposite side of the spectrum, a damp house is not beneficial either. Humidity can expand and warp wood in the home and cause peeling wallpaper. Dust mites and other allergens love high humidity conditions to spread spores. Many types of insects seek out humid conditions to thrive.

One of the biggest concerns with a humid home is the proliferation of mold and mildew. If there is more than 60 percent humidity in the house the conditions are ripe for mold to grow. Mold can attach to and grow on any number of surfaces. It spreads well on paper products, cardboard, ceiling tiles, and wood products. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, mold can also grow in dust, paints, wallpaper, insulation, drywall, carpet, fabrics, and upholstery. The Institute of Medicine has found sufficient evidence to link exposure to damp indoor environments in general to upper respiratory tract symptoms, cough and wheeze in otherwise healthy people and with asthma symptoms in people with asthma.

Controlling Humidity

Homeowners can determine humidity levels and help regulate it by first purchasing a hygrometer. This is an inexpensive meter found at most hardware stores. Go from room to room to determine areas that have improper humidity levels.

High humidity can be remedied by some methods:

- * Move plants outside.
- * Avoid aquariums or other water features inside.
- * Check for and remedy pooling of water around the foundation of the home.
- * Open windows frequently to ventilate rooms.
- * Consider purchasing one or more dehumidifiers to run in troublesome rooms.

If low humidity is the problem, consider these options.

- * Have a variety of houseplants around inside.
- * Consider a fish tank as a focal point and a source of evaporating water.
- * Consult with an HVAC professional to see if a humidifier can be added to the heating and cooling unit in the home.
- * Use room humidifiers to moisten the air.
- * Hang clothing and towels indoors to dry.

Possible ways to reduce risks for cataracts

While doctors still don't know what causes cataracts, there might be ways men and women concerned about their eyes can reduce their risk for cataracts. Though the following tips can't guarantee a person won't get cataracts, they might just help individuals reduce their risk.

* Address existing medical conditions. Certain medical conditions increase a person's risk of getting cataracts. These conditions include diabetes, high blood pressure and obesity. Men and women with diabetes should closely follow their treatment plan to reduce their risk of cataracts. Those who are obese or have high blood pressure should adopt a healthier lifestyle to lose weight and lower their blood pressure.

* Get routine eye examinations. Routine eye examinations can help doctors find cataracts and additional visionary ailments at their earliest stages. Should any sudden changes, such as blurriness or double vision, occur, visit an eye doctor immediately.

* Maintain a healthy weight. As mentioned above, obesity is a risk for cataracts. But men and women who can maintain a healthy weight with daily exercise and a healthy diet might reduce their risk for cataracts.
